

HALF-AND-HALF PLAN ENDORSED BY CITIZENS

Rhode Island Avenue Suburban Association Protests Against Any Change.

The half-and-half principle, as outlined in the plan of the District of Columbia, was endorsed last night by the Rhode Island Avenue Suburban Citizens' Association, which passed a resolution protesting against any change in the present arrangement of caring for the expenses of the District.

The association will meet at the annual meeting for receiving reports of progress during the year and for the election of officers, and was held at Sherwood Presbyterian Church, 224 and Rhode Island avenue northeast.

The association pledged itself to cooperate with the city committee through its delegate on that committee and also through a special committee which will look after the association's territory.

There was much enthusiasm when the president of the association read a letter from Commissioner Newnam, announcing that the site containing nearly six acres, between 18th and 20th, Montross and Newton streets, had been purchased by the District for a school. It also was announced that conferences had been held with E. S. Mendenhall, the director of playgrounds, for installing playground apparatus on this site, and that a garden club would be started in connection with the site through co-operation between the Department of Agriculture, the authorities of the recent Langdon School and the Rhode Island Avenue Suburban Citizens' Association.

Special Meeting Is Called.

The announcement also was made that a special meeting for inaugurating this work would be held today at Sherwood Presbyterian Church, at which time representatives of the Department of Agriculture, of the Langdon School and of the association would take up the question before the school children of the community.

In this connection the committee on plans and programs has made a report of its accomplishment during the year and of the plans for the annual garden contest inaugurated by the association six years ago.

The following officers were elected to serve for a year, many of them being re-elected: Beatrice Mann, president; C. S. Rockwood, vice president; Arthur Kause, secretary; Thomas S. Mallon, treasurer. The following were elected chairmen of the special committees: H. P. Baldwin, streets and sidewalks; Dan C. Vaughn, education; S. S. Symons, schools; J. J. Tobin, sewers and water; C. S. Mendenhall, membership; W. J. Crumblough, health and sanitation; J. M. Crabtree, press; J. V. La Grange, fire and police; A. S. Henderson, lights and mail; W. G. Lueders, public utilities; C. F. Doane, entertainment; Frank M. Hartley, of the Langdon school. The executive committee of the association is composed of the officers and the chairmen of special committees.

JUST HUMAN NATURE

MAN who sends a girl a bouquet always expects to come around to the house and have a few thrown at him during the conversation.

"I once voted for prohibition," said Grandpa Mithrill. "I had a neighbor I disliked so much I was willing to go thirsty myself for the sake of seeing him suffer."

A man may be sincere and strong, yet poor and melancholy, while those less gifted get along by knowing how to jolly.

To honestly have a good opinion of yourself is an entirely different proposition from merely flattering yourself.

Miss Pan y Pevin says she would just as soon take a chance on marrying for money or a title as on marrying a fellow who talks slang, chews gum and plays the guitar.

Many a man keeps an office down town simply to have some place to go while the folks are cleaning house.

We gaze and gaze and gaze and gaze and hope to gain a fleeting view of life and truth's mysterious.

And sometimes we learn something new.

We walk and walk and walk and walk. The journey seems to have no end. And yet we plod and do not talk, for now and then we meet a friend.

We sing and sing and sing and sing. And sometimes, as we lift the voice, a little melody will fling that makes an echoing world rejoice.

We read and read and read and read. We find at last some tiny bit of light. We find at last some tiny bit of light. We find at last some tiny bit of light.

We breathe and breathe and breathe and breathe. One crisp, clear day the ship will give to gloomy mists that round its wreath. And that's the day we really live.

We talk and talk and talk and talk. With industry and a little intense we chatter and chirp and whoop and squawk—and sometimes talk a little sense.

FEARFUL HUMOR COVERED FACE-- RESINOL CURED

Itchy, Covered With Pimples and Most Unpleasantly, Instantly Relieved.

PATERSON, N. J., Dec. 9, 1913:

"About a year ago my face began to crack and get scaly in blotches. It soon got worse, and my face was all spotted and rough, and it itched me very much at night, and caused me no end of discomfort. After a month or so, pimples and blackheads began to show, first in small numbers and then gradually covering my entire face. It was awful. The pimples were sore and the rash was itchy, and my face had a most unsightly appearance. I tried different kinds of soaps, creams and lotions, and also a strict diet, but I could get no relief. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment came to my rescue. By the time another tin of Resinol Ointment and a tin of Resinol Soap were gone, I can truthfully say that it was a complete cure. My face is now clear, and I can color and look, due to Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. They are the best things I have ever used for pimples, dandruff, sores, itchy, boils, etc. For trial size Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, write to Resinol, Dept. S-R, Baltimore, Md. A few subscribers for Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment for a trial size for them."

SUFFRAGISTS TO BRING BAND.

Philadelphians Coming Here for Parade May 9.

More than 500 Philadelphia suffragists, accompanied by a band, are coming to Washington for the votes-for-women parade May 9, according to an announcement made here today. A big demonstration, with an open-air meeting in Independence Square, is to be held May 2 to create interest in the May 9 parade. Mrs. Rheta Childs Dorr, editor of the Suffragist, is to be one of the speakers at this meeting.

Mrs. J. P. S. Neigh of Neighborhood House was announced today as the first woman to protest against the execution of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Penitentiary, sentenced to be hanged April 17 for the murder of fourteen-year-old Mary Phagan. The Hull House leader in her letter, which was made public here last night, suggests that Atlanta women, through their organization or through petition, seek to have the execution postponed pending further investigation to determine the guilt or innocence of the convicted man. Women's organizations here have taken no action on Miss Addams' suggestion.

DELAY IS COMPLAINED OF.

Senator Gallinger Gets Letter Regarding M Street High School.

A letter complaining of the delay in the erection of the new M Street High School, for which an appropriation was made two years ago, written by a resident of Washington, to Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, was referred by the senator to the District Commissioners.

Sensor Gallinger has received a reply from the Commissioners in which they say they will give consideration at once to the subject.

"It is to be hoped that the construction of that much needed school building will be started at an early date," said Senator Gallinger.

The commissioners of Washington county, Md., were petitioned Tuesday to construct a "model" road, with state aid, from Ringgold to Welby's Crossroad, a distance of two and a half miles.

APPEAL FOR FRANK MADE BY MISS JANE ADDAMS

Asks Atlanta Women to Petition That His Execution Shall Be Delayed.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 25.—Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, has written to Mrs. Emily McDougall, Atlanta club woman and leader in the woman's suffrage movement, asking Atlanta women to protest against the execution of Leo M. Frank, superintendent of the National Penitentiary, sentenced to be hanged April 17 for the murder of fourteen-year-old Mary Phagan. The Hull House leader in her letter, which was made public here last night, suggests that Atlanta women, through their organization or through petition, seek to have the execution postponed pending further investigation to determine the guilt or innocence of the convicted man. Women's organizations here have taken no action on Miss Addams' suggestion.

Attorneys for Frank announce that they have completed an extraordinary motion for a new trial, and that it will be filed shortly in the superior court. Previous attempts to have the verdict reversed and the case remanded for a new trial have failed with the state supreme court admitting the death sentence. The extraordinary motion will be based on the claim of newly discovered evidence. Friends of the convicted man recently engaged the services of a noted detective to investigate the case. His report is that the defense team, several affidavits made by the defense, the claim, show that the evidence on which Frank was found guilty is subject to doubt.

SUPPORTS CONSTITUTION.

Loyal Legion Opposes Modifications of Nation's Charter.

Any essential change or great modification of the Constitution of the United States which would in any way impair or jeopardize the original intent of that instrument is strongly opposed by the Commandery of the District of Columbia of the Loyal Legion of the United States.

In a statement made public today by officials of the organization, attention is invited to resolutions adopted recently by which the commandery "renewed and reasserted its devotion and allegiance to the Constitution, and protested against any impairment of its original powers or any essential modification of the great and beneficent charter under which, through the vicissitudes of nearly a century and a half of war and peace, we have grown and prospered to the nation that we are."

It was further resolved to send copies of the resolution to all commanderies and waters, requesting them to take similar action, and also to furnish Vice President Marshall and Speaker Clark with copies.

The Searchlight

The American Mathematical Society.

Few citizens have even heard of the American Mathematical Society, to say nothing of the fact that its delvings in the science of figures have been of value to European savants. And yet the society has been in existence for many years, has a membership of 710, including sixty-six life members, publishes essays and text books on mathematics, and has a library of 402 volumes.

The society held two very important meetings during the recent Christmas holidays—one at the University of Chicago and the other at Columbia University in New York city. The latter occasion was the annual meeting. An interesting feature to the general public is the fact that the retiring president of the society was Prof. H. B. Fine of Princeton, who declined appointment as ambassador to Germany. An important contribution to the sessions was Prof. Fine's address on "An Unpublished Theorem of Kronecker Respecting Numerical Equations." Eighty members attended the sessions and nine new ones were elected.

The society discussed with case such complex problems as the restricted problem of three bodies; the fourth dimension; the Fredholm determinant; covariant curves of the plane; rational quadratic cyclic systems of osculating circles of curves on a surface. The last subject does not refer to kissing!

To enact and cost, it is the Jumbo of the moving picture world.

The destiny of performances at this particular amphitheater had been delayed for years because of its size. The stage alone is 200 feet wide and 110 feet from the footlights to the back wall. Everything else is in proportion. Until electrical inventions of today made extremely high voltage possible the dream of the manager could not be realized.

Finally, electrical apparatus capable of generating 50,000 horsepower was installed, and a camera of fifty millimeters was used. The working force consisted of seventy-eight electricians, seventy-five property men and twenty-two engineers. The footlights were ten feet high. The performance lasted three hours a day for two weeks. There were over 700 performers. The light alone cost $12 a minute or $720 an hour. The total cost of the production was nearly $250,000.
